

Press Release

RareTi Chief Executive Alex Evans Named to Board of Rare Disease Nurse Network

Chicago - April 23, 2021

RareTi CEO Alex Evans, RN, has become a director of the Rare Disease Nurse Network (RDNN), an organization of nurses, industry leaders, and others committed to providing specialist nurse support for every person with a rare disease. RDNN seeks to establish a network of specialty nurses accessible to rare patients and their caregivers.

“Rare diseases need dedicated pathways through to specialists,” says RDNN founder Kay Parkinson. “Number one criteria is . . . fast access to specialists, and that would save very many lives.”

“RDNN’s mission and RareTi’s are well aligned in that both organizations seek to expand access to resources and treatment for individuals and families dealing with rare disease and both are deploying tools to achieve better outcomes,” notes Evans. “I look forward to applying my experience and clinical background to help RDNN realize its vision.”

About RareTi

RareTi offers a new Managed Access model to the pharmaceutical industry delivering solutions to meet the unmet needs of people and communities across the globe impacted by rare disease. Our Managed Access and patient support programs provide care beyond therapy, combining customizable solutions with white glove service. We combine a breadth of global experience, cutting edge technologies and analytics that deliver better outcomes. To find out more, visit www.rareiti.com or email us at info@rareiti.com.